

Blog updates - 8/10/25

2025 Mt Brewer Expedition
8/2/25-8/8/25

This weekend was a perfect break in the summer weather for hitting the trail at Lime Ridge. Most of the group knocked out the 5 mile while others hit the trail on 2 wheels.

A typical day on the trail. Making our way out of the valley from Roaring River toward the high country.

Brandon casting for some dinner

Noah's catch. Made for a great fish dinner.

Sunset at Little Brewer Lake

We had amazing moonlit evenings. There's Mt. Brewer in the background.

Circling Big Brewer Lake. No more trails from here up to the mountain.

Setting up our kitchen at Mt Brewer Basecamp at 11,000ft

Snowballs anyone???

The view from 12,000'. There's North Guard in the background. Way too gnarly of an ascent to attempt. We'll leave it to the pros.

The ascent to the peak of Mt Brewer. We took a different approach from past years and attempted something new on the east side. Old Man Brewer shut his doors and wouldn't let us pass. ALWAYS RESPECT THE MOUNTAIN. We made a great effort but chose wisdom over glory and made it back safely. You can see our attempted route near the top where we hit 13,000ft.

One final look back to Mt. Brewer from Big Brewer Lake. Thanks for having us Old Man Brewer!
